FRANCE AND BELGIUM ARE UNIT AGAINST BRITAIN

Formulate Notes to Lop Off Part of England's War Claim; Chaos in Berlin

BY VINCENT SHEEHAN

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

PARIS, July 29.—The French and Belgian replies to the British note on reparations will be delivered at Downing Street tomorrow evening or Tuesday morning. The Belgian reply was handed to the Quai d'Orsay at noon today and immediately telegraphed by special wire to Premier Poincare at Champs-Élysées.

This evening the Premier advised the Quai d'Orsay that the reply made by Premier Theunis of Belgium meets in general with his approval but he suggested a few minor changes in phraseology and several alterations in his own reply making the two documents more nearly in accord in principle.

The final modifications are expected to be completed tomorrow thus permitting the dispatch of the documents to London. The French and the Belgians have solved the problem of hiding the principal differences in their points of view in their respective notes in the simplest possible manner—by not mentioning them at all.

LIST OF QUESTIONS
M. Poincare's "reply" is chiefly a list of interrogations and requests for additional information on details, making it really a questionnaire. One of the principal passages, for instance, is a demand for information as to how much the various Allies meaning Great Britain, claim from Germany.

The Belgian note proposes a revision of the partition of the reparations amounts, hitting at an increase in the French portion, now 52 per cent, and a decrease in that of the British which is 22 per cent.

The proposed commission of international experts for reducing and reducing the reparations total is the most delicate matter now at hand. M. Poincare has unofficially intimated to M. Theunis that he would prefer to personally discuss the matter with the British, although the Belgians would have preferred to come to Paris last week and personally discuss the matter. They even hinted at the advisability of M. Theunis and M. Poincare submitting their replies in person to Premier Baldwin in London.

POINCARÉ FOR DELAY
M. Poincare is in no hurry and prefers to delay in the belief that the complete crash of Germany is imminent and that it will automatically render useless any arrangements made or discussion undertaken.

The British, however, may force the French hand, as Lord Curzon is advising his friends that he is coming to France to personally discuss the matter as soon as Parliament adjourns. This will provide him with a pretext for turning up at Paris when the Belgians are there for their discussion with M. Poincare.

TWILIGHT OF THE GODS
BY EYMOUR B. CONGER
(By Cable-Exclusive Dispatch)
(London Correspondent)

BERLIN, July 29.—The twilight of the gods appears to be hanging over the Cuno Cabinet as a result of the Centrist decision to call for a showdown at the coming session of the Reichstag to decide whether the present administration has a right to exist. A Socialist attack also is very probable although the Reichstag is not yet convened. The party are anxious to avoid assuming the responsibility for plotting the government through the present treacherous darkness.

The masses, as shown by meetings of subordinate leaders in Berlin and other places until the demand for the overthrow of the Cuno Cabinet, declaring it utterly incompetent to deal with the situation.

The Cabinet is finally awakened to the necessity of shifting from its attitude of passive endurance of the last six months to some positive policy designed to prevent complete financial chaos in the Reichstag.

The present storm is to throw the paper mark Jonah overboard and attempt to substitute some form of stable or near-stable currency medium.

REDS SPEND BLUE SUNDAY

Ruhr Communists, Scared by the French Authorities, Decide to Lie Still and Keep Quiet

BY PAUL WILLIAMS

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

DUESSELDORF, July 29.—The Communists who wanted to foregather today and condemn everything that was not Red were shrouded in disappointment. Instead of rioting and wrangling throughout the Rhine and the Ruhr, they were lying prostrate before the French authorities.

Not one attempt was made to hold a meeting in defiance of the French and German edicts and what might have been a Red Sunday turned out to be one of the most colorless and peaceful ones in the history of the occupation.

WHIPPET TANKS APPEAR
Even those rampant Reds in hard-boiled Bochum decided that discretion was the better part of Bolshevism. This decision was probably reached about 5 o'clock this morning when a column of whippet tanks crawled noisily along the pavement and sent the barking dogs scurrying to cover.

While Sunday was without its disturbances in the occupied territory, the situation of the populace is serious and becoming more so. The Belgians made a small, but important, extension of their area of occupation today. The new area is the Baldrur and Leopold mines of large extent which are owned by the Hoesch Company of Dortmund.

NO MEAT OR POTATOES
Only 161 cars of food, one-third of the normal supply for the whole valley, entered the Ruhr yesterday. This was due to the refusal to sell or to ship on account of the heavy losses sustained through the depreciation of the mark.

Gelsenkirchen is particularly short of meat and potatoes. The situation is so serious that the German government will hardly be strong enough to put it down despite the strong measures.

SOCIAL BREAKDOWN
The social breakdown in Germany is exactly what the Poincare government desires and what it has been planning. She has been unable on account of British opposition to the Ruhr to the rest of Germany. Once Germany is torn by revolution, however, France will have the excuse of restoring order she will send troops to the Ruhr to the rest of Germany.

RUSSIAN PLOTS CONTINUE
Soviets Still Spread Radical Poison Despite Avowals Repudiating Foreign Propaganda

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Recent protests by the Russian government and its American apostles, Senatorial and otherwise, that Russia has given up or is willing to abandon the spreading of anti-government propaganda in foreign countries, are contradicted by the Communists themselves in two official statements recently received in the United States, according to R. M. Whitney, director of the Washington Bureau of the American Defense Society.

"Recent news dispatches have recorded the fact that a small army of propagandists, having finished their course at the propaganda school in Moscow, are being sent to the United States for the purpose of spreading the Communist propaganda in this country and teaching the perils of internationalism to the American people."

"Supplementing that is the fact that the Third Internationale has just announced that it has 12,000,000 for the support of propaganda newspapers outside of Russia. This is an official statement of the Communist propaganda abroad."

EBERT IS IN SADDLE AGAIN

Openly Takes Leadership of Germany and Promises Wide Reforms; Outlines Government Program

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

BERLIN, July 29.—The President Ebert has again openly taken the leadership of the nation in hand, outlining in the name of the government a program for the immediate future.

First of all pathetically appealing for quiet and order, he promises wide and sweeping reforms. He expresses the deep gratitude felt to the inhabitants of the Ruhr by all Germans and cites as a real example of how all Germans should show their patriotism.

Oppression of the German people and their countless humiliations have now been followed by unheard-of misery, he declares, while France is preventing any solution of the Ruhr problem. The idea is to put them on Canadian farms.

Negro Burned in Mississippi After Attack

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

YAZOO CITY (Miss.), July 29.—While Minfield, negro, was burned at the stake in a swamp here at 11 o'clock this morning by a mob which accused him of attacking a white woman twenty miles southeast of here, with an axe early last night and inflicting wounds which physicians believe will prove fatal.

Minfield and another negro were captured by a mob here at 10 o'clock this morning. According to members of the posse, the other negro, whose name is unknown, and who later escaped, declared that he stood outside the woman's home while Minfield went in to attack the woman.

Minfield was taken from the posse by a mob, brought here, tied to a cross and burned to death.

that this is bound to come within a short time, and that it will be followed by another World War—a war that will be even more ravaging than the last.

"When the revolution comes the Cuno government will hardly be strong enough to put it down despite the strong measures. The whole country is within a short time I expect to see the southern part of Germany separated from the north and establish a new German state. Germany will probably retain a Soviet state."

Once Germany is torn by revolution, however, France will have the excuse of restoring order she will send troops to the Ruhr to the rest of Germany.

"But that is not all. Russia will not stand by while imperialist France threatens the young Communist rebellion in the north of Germany. Answering the call for arms, the Russian army will strike at France by an invasion of Poland. That of course will be the spark that will start the Russian revolution. We will then see the magnificent trained and equipped army of the Russian revolution strike at France. INVESTIGATION STARTED Immediately following the accident, T. B. Hamilton, Pennsylvania division superintendent, accompanied by railway detectives, went to the scene to investigate conditions. While scores of motor-car parties passed shortly before and following the accident, the officials were unable to locate any witnesses to the wreck other than Operator Gillespie.

A small white dog, which was carried in the automobile, died a few minutes after the accident. The dog was named "Buddy" and was owned by the family of the deceased. The dog was found by the family of the deceased.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—The Seals broke even on the day's play with Vernon today, losing the morning game, 9 to 2, and winning in the afternoon, 7 to 2. The Seals won six of the eight games played, which is getting even with their old tormentors with a vengeance. Last year the Seals could not win a series from Vernon, and although they had much the stronger club, the Seals could not shake off Vernon until the last week of the pennant race.

But this year it is different. The Seals are out in front and have actually gained ground while they were seriously crippled, while the Tigers are down in the second division. They don't look natural down there; but unless the team takes a big brace that is where they will finish. Hodge was hard hit in the morning, while Shellenback was effective, so the champions did not have much of a chance.

Ernie Allen tackled the Seals in the afternoon. He had beaten them earlier in the week and hoped to repeat, but things did not turn out that way. The Tigers stalked him to two runs in the first inning, due to some slopping on the part of the Seals; but after that Vernon were down to nothing with Harry Courtney.

The Seals hopped onto Allen in the fifth and put the game away on ice. In that round they massed six hits and scored six runs, and after that Courtney just batted in.

In that fifth inning Rhyno singled to center and Agnew pumped a hit to left. Courtney hit to Allen, who threw to third too late to get Rhyno and all hands were safe and the bases were full.

Compton singled, scoring Rhyno and Agnew, but Courtney was picked off second base. Valla was safe on Rogers' error. Compton's single scored Compton. Hendrix singled to center, scoring Valla, and Mulligan stepped into third when Chadbourne booted the ball. Hendrix stole second. Elliott fanned, but Kilduff singled to right, scoring Mulligan and Hendrix. Rhyno came up for the second time in the inning and popped out to Rader.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

THE "DOG PADDLE"

What is the best stroke for beginners to learn first?

Answered by

BILL BACKRACH

Illinois Athletic Club, most famous and successful of all swimming coaches; has turned out champions such as Johnny Weissmuller, world's fastest swimmer; Norman Ross, Billy Bauer, Perry McGillicuddy, Harry Heber, Arthur Ralston, Bob Shelton, and Mike McDermott.

The dog paddle because it is most easily self-taught. The body lies flat on the water, the head held high enough to permit breathing through the mouth. The motion is simple, merely a crawling action with arms alternating. It is well to keep the hands and arms below the surface of the water; to bring them out results in splashing which interferes with breathing and with vision.

ALOMAR CLUB IS NOSED OUT

Very Hitting Affair Goes to Compton Nine

Grab Most Hits, but Lose by 13 to 12

Alomar Squad Complains of "Dirty" Playing

In a game featured by lots of hitting the Compton Firemen outed the Alomar 13 to 12, and their twelfth straight victory. Although the Alomar played a very hitting game, they were unable to bunch their blows in the opportune times.

The hitting of Myers, Wells, Buckle, and Glen was featured. Myers collected three four hits apiece, Storkie collected two doubles, while Alomar and Kistler collected three hits apiece. Kistler's sensational drive of a double batted for the bases and threw the first for the Alomar. The game was a double play feature of the game.

The Alomar complained of dirty playing by several of the Compton players. The score:

Robber-Murder Suspect is Traced to Home

Respected Citizen Nabbed in Sensational Case

His Broken-Arched Feet Fit Slayer's Shoes

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) CHICAGO, July 29.—Tracked down by bloodhounds brought here from Colchester, Ill., by airplane and automobile, George Hincheliff, highly respected citizen of La Grange, Ill., a Chicago suburb, was taken to the police station as a suspect in connection with the murder of Byron Porter, who had been on the La Grange police force thirty years. Porter was slain by some one whom he surprised robbing a store Saturday night.

The case has many sensational aspects. A mile and a half from the scene of the murder, some person had seated himself in the sand and removed his shoes, which contained arch supports. The shoes, carefully wrapped in paper, were thrown into some shrubbery. Hincheliff has broken arches and the shoes found by the police fit him perfectly. In addition, he has been identified as the owner of the car that was used in the interrupted burglary and the killing.

Ex-Senator Fall Declares for Trade Agreement

American Oil Concessions Are Cleared Up

Investigator Believes Reds Overvalue Holdings

BY ARTHUR E. MANN (EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) LONDON, July 29.—Ex-Senator Fall, also former Secretary of the Interior, arrived here today from Russia, where he has been studying the oil situation in general and looking after the oil interests there of Harry F. Sinclair in particular. Sinclair himself, who was with Fall, sailed at once on the Mauretania from Southampton for New York. In an interview with me this afternoon, the former Secretary explained his Russian trip as follows:

"Among other reasons, I went to Moscow to help Sinclair in his negotiations with the Soviet government regarding his oil concession in the northern half of the island of Sakhalin (Northern Sakhalin belongs to Russia, but has for several years been occupied by Japanese, who own the south half of the island.)

"Until recent formation of the Union of Soviet Republics, that district in the northern half of the island was in a complicated situation, because it was obtained from the Far Eastern or

Convict Saved $800 in Tips, But Leaves $800; Pardoned by Governor

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) OSSING (N. Y.) July 29.—"Sam, the Bootblack," who shined shoes in Sing Sing prison for almost fifteen years, was released today on a conditional pardon from Gov. Smith, which subtracted a few months from his long sentence. He left with the unusual distinction of having saved $800 in tips from his fellow convicts, and the more unusual distinction of leaving $800 of it as a nest-egg for other convicts.

The bootblack's real name is Samuel Williams.

Chita republic. There was no telling what attitude the Moscow government would take in the matter.

CONCESSION OBTAINED
"Now, under the newly formed Union of Soviet Republics, the Moscow government has complete authority over granting concessions. Mr. Sinclair obtained approval of the Sakhalin concession, so that it is now completely regularized.

"I also understand that a similar situation applies to American oil-drilling concessions in the Baku district, in which Sinclair is interested. While he was in Moscow he also arranged the final details regarding the Baku deal."

Discussing Russia's general oil policy, Fall said he got the impression in Moscow that the Soviet government is going to keep a tight hand on actual ownership of all oil lands, though it might make limited concessions to foreign companies in oil territory already developed.

"But," he went on, "the Soviet government wants foreign capital and foreign technical assistance in Russia today for the development of her mining and manufacturing enterprises and she is willing to pay for it."

"For instance, in the Baku drilling concessions, the company in which Mr. Sinclair is interested gets paid in part of the oil it produces, which it then markets."

OVERESTIMATE VALUE
The ex-Senator believes Russians overestimate the value of their oil.

"Most Russian oil so far produced," he explained, "is not as valuable as American oil, because it does not yield so much gasoline, particularly under the old date-refining methods still used there. Its principal value to America will be that as production there increases, it will release that much more American, Mexican and South American oil for our own consumption and make us less dependent upon possible future calls on fields outside North and South America."

Fall says he returns to America more than ever convinced of the necessity of concluding an official Russo-American trade understanding on the lines of the Anglo-Russian agreement.

"I'm not going to campaign for such action," he added, "but if my advice is asked when I get home I will give it strongly to that effect."

He intimated that several Russian officials, including Leonid Krassin, until recently Russian Trade Commissioner in London, urged on him the necessity for such an agreement. Discussing the Russian political situation, the former Secretary continued:

"Whatever may have been the original character of the Soviet administration, at present it expresses one as having changed very much from the strict Communist to extreme radicalism. Today it stands for a certain kind of socialism as regards nationalization of railways, factories and other industries."

"There is, however, an important exception, namely, in regard to the peasants. Whatever the intentions of the workmen who originally dominated the situation, the peasants can now hold their land under a life tenure."

Fall said he is convinced the present Soviet regime is firmly in the saddle and will make no question of full diplomatic recognition of the Russians by the United States, he declared that is a political matter for the State Department to decide.

AS TO FOREIGN DEMANDS
However, discussing the question of Russia's attitude toward demands for compensation for losses of foreign capital through the revolution, he said he firmly believed there has been a distinct change in the Soviet policy from this attitude, explaining:

"While still maintaining its refusal to compensate foreign capitalists for losses or for loss to invested capital I have good reason to believe the Moscow government is now ready to pay compensation for foreign losses in goods and services due to the revolution."

Fall attaches considerable importance to this change of policy, believing it will mean facilitation of establishment and development of foreign trade and trading relations with Soviet Russia on a solid, safe footing.

Calves Glisten; Girls Doff Hose at Coney Island

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) CONEY ISLAND, July 29.—Girls took their stockings off at Coney Island today—girls bathers, that is—though to some extent account for a crowd of 75,000 flocking to the beach despite dubious weather. In all, more than 500,000 persons visited the island during the day.

It was the first time bare-legged female bathers have been permitted at Coney. Late yesterday Capt. Gillen declared there was no ordinance to prevent girls and women from swimming without stockings. The word spread quickly and today stockinged mermaids were vainly in the water. The day brought forth a new fad at Coney. Many girls were seen with butterfly, hearts, and other designs tattooed on their arms to hide vaccination marks.

CRISIS SEEN ON AVIATION IN ENGLAND

Admiralty Threatens to Resign if Army and Navy Are Not Separated

BY JOHN STEEL (EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) LONDON, July 29.—Premier Baldwin's government must face its first serious crisis next week when a decision will have to come on the future control of the flying arm of the Navy.

About three years ago the Royal Air Force was organized as a separate force, independent of the Army and of the Navy, with a minister of its own in the Cabinet. The Navy did not like this arrangement but acquiesced in it as an experiment, in the meantime maintaining more than 1000 officers and men as a skeleton personnel.

The whole subject was recently referred to a sub-committee of the committee of Imperial defense for investigation and report. This committee has now reported in favor of maintaining an independent air force which shall have control of all forces, both of attack and defense.

The whole board of the admiralty, headed by Earl Beatty, threatens to resign if this report is adopted, basing their attitude on the argument that naval flying presents an entirely different problem from army flying. The navy airplanes are, in the view of the admiralty, not fighting machines but scouts, the "eyes of the fleet," taking the place of the frigates of old sailing days, and the personnel must be trained seamen in order to give efficient service and must be entirely under naval control.

The whole matter will be considered by the Cabinet early next week and the Premier will make a statement before the Commons adjourns for their holiday, there is little doubt that the latter will carry out their threat and resign.

I quit, but not by choice. I would rather remain in business, but this boom in REAL ESTATE has caused rents to go sky high. I can sell both of my stores as a whole, but I think that I owe the men of Los Angeles this much and that is to give them some good bargains as long as I am quitting. I have two tremendous stocks to select from. Up at my 602 W. 6th St. Store I received a notice the other day to pack up and get out in a short while because they are going to build a 12-story skyscraper. Here at 340 So. Spring St. my lease is expiring and they want twice the rent—that means I must seek each customer that comes to buy from me. I don't intend to seek anybody, particularly my good and valuable customers. After being in business for 36 years I think it is about time to quit anyway. So here goes, men. Come to either of my stores and buy at your year's needs—buy your next winter's supply as well as this summer's needs. I will save you a good many dollars. Come, men, you have been buying from me for years—I will take better care of you than ever before. I owe you something for helping me make this success that I did. Police Sergeant Testifies for Veronica

Philadelphia, Pa.—Police Sergeant William Millington says for the benefit of humanity, he feels it his duty to set out before you with the hope that you are troubled as he was you will find a fair trial.

I was suffering from a kidney ailment that had me up for six months at a time and I would swell considerably. I began the use of Grape-Nuts and found this swelling began to reduce rapidly, which somewhat alarmed me, and I sought the advice of my physician, and when I told him what I was taking, he said, "You have a well man, have no ailment of any kind. I give you Grape-Nuts the entire credit of my cure. I think no other medicine from the store in our station house who have commended its use. I have recommended it to a number of the men in our station house who have been equally benefited by its use."—Alfred Millington, Sergeant, 10th Street Police, Philadelphia, Pa.

SENATOR LAUDS FARMER-LABOR

Brookhart Sees Alliance as Economic Necessity

Thinks Group Entitled to Overthrow Middleman

Declared Only Solution of Political Unrest

(ST. A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) July 29.—Inequalities of our economic system have forced the different groups like the farm bloc, labor bloc, the soldiers' bloc and mothers' bloc, to consider their own interests collectively, and these groups now are figuring their own problems as the business man figures his business, Smith W. Brookhart, United States Senator from Iowa, asserted in an address here today.

Senator Brookhart spoke at the annual picnic of the Trades and Labor Assembly.

These groups have reached the common conclusion that their interests are identical, Mr. Brookhart said. They now assert that they have been kept apart and at enmity by the great combinations of wealth.

"The question of unrest is the most engrossing in the State, national and international fields," said Mr. Brookhart. "It is said more often than anything else that we are in a great state of unrest, civilization has reached a turning point. It is universal prediction that great changes are impending."

"While this is true in general, there are few who point out any specific causes or suggest any concrete remedy. I think there is no advantage in criticizing an old system or method until a better new one is suggested."

"Based on these ideas, I have attempted to reason out the causes of this unrest, and to suggest a remedy that would displace it."

EXPLAINS BLOC

"The several blocs now are figuring their own problems as the business man figures his business. They have reached the common conclusion that interests are identical. They have learned a few basic facts. Out of the dollar which the laboring man pays for the products of the farm, the farmer gets thirty-seven cents. Out of the dollar which the farmer pays for the product of labor, based upon the Department of Commerce bulletin of 1912, the laboring man gets less than twenty cents. The cost of distributing the profits and wastes of the middlemen are costing sixty-three cents one way and eighty cents the other. The laboring man therefore has ceased to denounce the farmer as a profiteer. On the other hand, the farmer is no longer willing to fight the laboring man in the vain attempt to reduce the twenty cents he is now getting. Each has definitely concluded that the middleman with his profits, waste and extravagance, is the common economic and political enemy of both. Upon this basis these great blocs have united together for economic and political action.

CO-OPERATION URGED

"These groups have not united together for any radical or destructive purpose. They have united upon a common remedy. It is not a wild and untried theory. It is known as economic co-operation and was invented by twenty-three farmers and weavers, the equitable pioneers of Rochdale."

"The prophets of the combination and trust system in business and of the spoils system in politics denounce this alliance of the farmers and laboring people as unholy, ill-advised and vicious."

"If these two great elements of the common people of our country, together with their soldier members and mother members, unite upon a common program common sense demands that they shall do so."

BUST OF EADS WILL BE PUT IN HALL OF FAME

(REUTERS DISPATCH.) ST. LOUIS, July 29.—Photographs of the portrait of James H. Eads, designer and builder of the Eads Bridge and of the Mississippi River jetties below New Orleans, taken from the portrait of Eads at the St. Louis Engineers' Club, have been forwarded by Water Commissioner Wall to Charles Grafly, American sculptor at Philadelphia, who will use the pictures in modeling a life-size bronze bust of Eads to be placed on a marble pedestal in the hall of fame of the University of the City of New York.

Leviathan on First Voyage Nets $379,000

(REUTERS DISPATCH.) WASHINGTON, July 29.—Reports on the financial results of the first round trip of the steamship Leviathan, which sailed from New York on the 4th inst. and returned on the 23rd inst., were made public today by Chairman Farley of the Shipping Board.

The reports show that on the outward voyage the receipts were $411,000 and on the inward voyage $368,000, making a total income of $779,000. The actual out-of-pocket operating expenditures on the Leviathan for the round trip were $400,000. This shows a profit of $379,000 in round numbers for the Leviathan's maiden voyage.

HISTORIC FARM SOLD

(REUTERS DISPATCH.) KANSAS CITY, July 29.—The last of the million-dollar Armour farm on Wornall Road has been sold, the J. C. Nichols Investment Company paying $620,000 for 285 acres lying between the State line and Wornall Road. This acreage, which includes the old farm house sitting at the end of a tree-lined drive from Wornall Road, was bought from A. Watson Armour, Lawrence Armour and their sister, Mrs. Mary Augusta Armour Dunn. The purchase price was approximately $2400 an acre.

The Meat of the Wheat

STARCH is the "meat" of the wheat berry. It is the great energy-producing element of the grain.

But, in order to do you any good, it must be thoroughly digested, and it is right here that such a food as Grape-Nuts renders special service.

Grape-Nuts, made from wheat and malted barley, supplies the meat of the wheat in most digestible form.

That is because in the making of Grape-Nuts a large proportion of the starch is converted into dextrins and maltose—forms into which all starch elements must be changed before they can be assimilated by the system.

Grape-Nuts not only digest easily, but also aids in the digestion of other foods.

Crisp, delicious Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food. It supplies the essential vitamin-B; also iron, phosphorus and other important mineral elements for nerve, tooth, bone and other body structure.

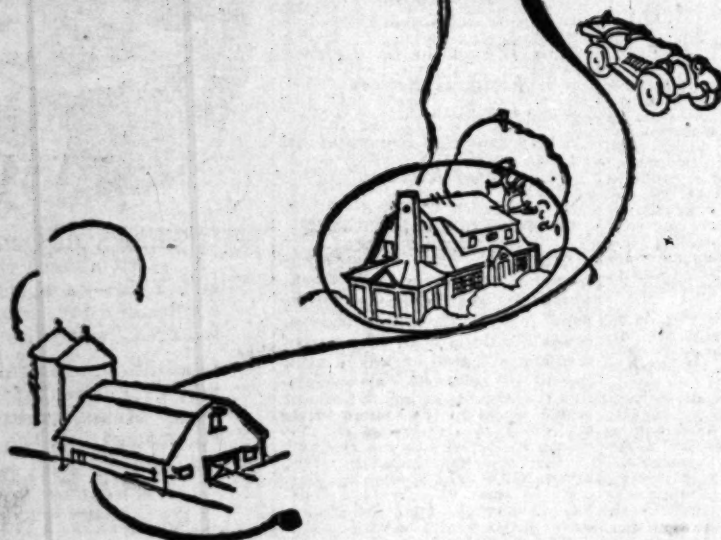

The daily use of Grape-Nuts is a form of health insurance which has demonstrated its value for more than 25 years.

Why only PARTIAL insurance?

IF YOUR property is worth insuring at all, it is all worth insuring, and it should be insured against every contingency that might result in a loss.

The man who insures his house and not the furniture in it, accepts part of the loss himself in the event of disaster—he insures himself and in so doing accepts a condition that for hundreds of years has been recognized as dangerous and economically unsound.

The unrecoverable dollars that have gone up in smoke under such conditions would build Panama Canals and pay many a nation's war debts.

Why not consult your insurance agent today and get his advice concerning the type and the amount of insurance you need? His functions cover something more than the mere writing of insurance policies. He is in a position to give you real constructive insurance service.

MANY property owners consider that they are fully covered if they carry the required amount of fire insurance. As a matter of fact, there are several other forms of protection equally important.

Ask for your insurance agent's advice on the type and amount of insurance that will best meet your requirements.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

The public service department of the Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles issues the following table of the range of prices on the New York Stock Exchange for the week ending July 27, together with the net changes as compared with the close of the preceding week. (+Gain. -Loss.)

Probably Tetrahedrite
AMADO (Ariz.) July 11.—Question: Will you kindly tell me whether the enclosed sample has any commercial value?

"SUBSCRIBER."
Answer: The specimen was delayed in transit. They were tested for Tantalite, Tellurium and Uranium and with negative results.

By qualitative analysis lead, antimony, zinc, and traces of arsenic were found. On the larger of the specimens a microscopic coating was observed resembling one of the Tremolite, and it proved to be of gypsum and calcite. Not tested for silver.

The specimens appear to belong to the tetrahedrite group, and they call for quantitative analysis with a more liberal supply of the mineral.

Potash Present
PHOENIX (Ariz.) July 1.—Q: I am enclosing a sample of altered rock, occupying some geological horizon as alumina deposits exist within other States. I would like to know if the sample carries alumina or potash.
A: Quantitative tests were made on the rock resembling Trachyte. The specimen reacts more or less for potash but not of the available (water soluble) variety. Aluminum is present as silicate and not as alumina. The sample is far away from the Bauxites of the Southern States of our good old United States.

Tin Present
LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Q: I am enclosing a sample of mineral from Alaska. He states that there is any amount of it. What is it? Has it any commercial value? How would a person go about marketing it if it is of value? Please advise.

MRS. S.
A: The samples are of boulders and pebbles and chiefly of quartzite nature. They carry dark silicate; microscopic pyrite, and microscopic sulphides of iron. The specimens were run to slurry, mesh and panned carefully. Tin is present in low percentage. Quantitative analysis, made on quite a lot of the rock, would give the exact percentage of tin present. A better result would be had by giving the pebbles and boulders a mill run of one ton; concentrate the pulp and arrive at the proper results. It is doubtful if the tin present would pay to work on the commercial scale. There is no market for the deposit represented by the samples in ton or carload lots.

"Ironite"
FELLOWS, July 12.—Q: I am enclosing a sample of some kind of ore, said to be ironite, which came from a cave in Oklahoma. The formation is said to show there has been intense heat at some time, and this mineral is from the drippings in said cave. I believe it is a form of iron, but thought perhaps it might contain nickel and cobalt, or some other valuable mineral, and I would be pleased to have your opinion on it.
A: The writer is not familiar with "Ironite," and the sample seems to have the earmarks of manufactured iron disulphide. There is no nickel or cobalt present. It is on the order of pyrite.

Chalcodony
VICTORVILLE, July 12.—Q: I am enclosing small sample of what appears to be carbonate of copper, not sure. Do you think it would be of any use to look for Emerald in this vicinity?

R.
A: Emerald (beryl) is springing up in the sample, and the thumb specimen is chiefly chalcodony (quartz). Copper silicate present in traces only with malachite (copper carbonate). Emerald occurs in tin ore veins, also with tourmaline, triphylite, topaz, mica, chlorite, staurolite, and in granite.

Quartzite Rock
TORRANCE, July 14.—Q: Please test this rock for all that is in it.
A: There is more or less iron and manganese in the sample of altered rock, and the mineral is abundant.

Cinnabar Abundant
LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Q: Kindly inform me what minerals are contained in the sample attached to this note.
A: The altered rock is stained with hematite (iron peroxide), and free gold is absent. Magnesium and aluminum silicates found. There is a yellowish micaceous mica in the specimen, in traces only, which under the glass, at certain angles and not at all angles, resembles gold.

Colemanite Indicated
LAS VEGAS (Nev.) July 14.—Question: Please let me know through the mining columns of The Times, published every Monday, what the two samples of mineral contain. One sample is, I think, "sugar lime" and for which I hope there is a market. The other sample is white; it may be Barium, or borax, or some other mineral with which I am not acquainted. Please test samples for whatever you think they contain. The claims are located about sixteen miles from Las Vegas, Clark county, Nev.

Answer: The grayish sample is lime carbonate, but whether it is of the sugar variety is somewhat doubtful. The whitish and crystallized specimens are lime carbonate chiefly, and very much resemble the Colemanite deposits of Nevada. As a matter of fact one of the smaller crystal specimens carries traces of borax (Colemanite.)

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Q: Here is a sample of what appears to be a large deposit located about twenty-five miles northwest of Los Angeles. I would like to know if it contains phosphates. I am inclined to believe it does. If other-

OIL OPERATORS SHOW RIVALRY

Carson Street is Looking for More Development

Long Beach-Redondo Field at Topmost Activity

Drillers Make Bets as to How Fields May Expand

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

TORRANCE, July 29.—Considerable interest is being shown, particularly by oil operators, in the difference in depths at which the Chandler Canfield Midway's Torrance No. 2, an offset, cemented their ten-inch string. The Midway Northern cemented at 2430 feet and, according to its officials, had no showing above that depth to cause them to cement higher. The C.C.M.O. crew cemented its well at 3223 feet. If an oil sand is picked up between 3223 feet and the depth at which the Midway Northern cemented, the rest of the wells will be required to cement at the higher level, according to the State Bureau of Mines.

While the old Long Beach-Redondo Boulevard with its rush of activity has temporarily crowded Carson street out of the spotlight, interesting developments are expected along this highway, which has been the scene of the principal activity during the past six months. The Superior Oil Company's Shedd No. 1, which struck an oil showing at 3620 feet, is now down 1150 feet and during the past three days has been gassing heavily.

This well is being cored frequently, and the crew expects to pick up the production sand at any time. The Shedd well and the Chandler Canfield Midway's offset, Torrance No. 10, are the farthest east of the wells on Carson street and much importance is attached to their showing as it gives a good line on the extension of the field.

RIVALRY OVER WELLS
The Carson-street and old Redondo-Long Beach Boulevard rivalry has reached a point where the supporters of the territory to the north are warning that the Superior's Shedd No. 1 will be as good as the Midway Northern's well.

On the north side of Carson street and a half-mile west of the Shedd well the crews of the Hub Oil Company are preparing to drill out the cement in Frye No. 1, which offsets the Chandler Canfield.

Forty Ready for Production Are Only Waiting Piping To Carry of Added Output

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

SANTA FE SPRINGS, July 29.—In spite of the fact that nearly forty wells are standing ready for production, having been drilled to the Meyers sand, only five new wells were added to the list of producers here during the past week. The daily production average was increased $5,700 barrels. The list of new producers would have been larger had pipe-line connections been made, as several of the new wells are awaiting completion of carriers before being bailed in.

The most notable of the new wells was placed on production by the Bell View Oil Syndicate, which made 10,000 barrels during the initial flow. The Bell View well, drilled on the Grohs property to 4710 feet, was the fourth well, it is said, to be started in the entire field and has been pursued since the spudding-in date by bad luck in the guise of side-tracker jobs and tabulating jobs of a tedious and serious nature.

RUN OF BAD LUCK
In one instance it was necessary to skid the rig and start a new hole. The well produced 100 barrels and was killed in March. The well was deepened to the Meyer sand. The oil is 35 degrees gravity and the gas pressure under the present curtailment order has mounted to 600 pounds. The Grohs lease is now down 1150 feet and during the past three days has been gassing heavily.

The Southern California Oil Syndicate's well No. 1, drilled on property located at the intersection of Little Lake and Butler roads, came in during a test the early part of the week, but was killed and deepened. This well became a producer in the Meyers sand Saturday morning and made an initial flow of 6200 barrels. The well was drilled 4620 feet and is in 35 degrees gravity. The well is 34 degrees gravity.

IS GOOD PRODUCER
Drilled to the 4610 foot level in the deep sand zone, the Wilshire Oil Company placed the Fraser No. 1 well on production during the first part of the week and a flow of 1800 barrels was registered, according to statements given out by officials of the company. The well is in 35 degrees gravity and the flow has been curtailed 45 per cent in pursuance with the existing order. The Fraser No. 1 is located on the Shedd property. The well is 35 degrees gravity. The well is 34 degrees gravity.

NEW FORMATION
What is declared by the drillers and officials to be a new formation is said to have been found by the Luneta Oil Company drilling in the so-called wild cat territory in the extreme southwestern portion of the field. This information has failed to cause a great amount of comment among oil men in the field.

The Torrance No. 6, on the south, and Smith No. 2, which offsets the Torrance No. 6, are the farthest east of the producing wells on Carson street, as well as being the farthest east. At the present time it is the highest gravity well in the field. The gravity is varying 28.5, and the production slightly more than 500 barrels on a small beam.

With its Felter Community No. 1 drilling at a depth of 4575 feet, the Standard Oil Company took the lead over the Shell Company last week in the quest for a deep sand. The Felter well is a quarter of a mile west of the western limits of the city of Torrance and the same distance north of the Torrance-Redondo highway. The Shedd well, Redondo No. 1, is about midway between the two cities and is down 4790 feet.

TEST FOR DEEPER SAND
The Standard is going down with rotary tools and the Shell with standard tools. The Standard is prepared to give the west side of the field a thorough test for deeper sand. Before the deep drilling started, it was the opinion of the oil men in giving the lower sand in the Torrance field serious consideration that it would not be picked up short of 5000 feet.

The Peterson-Barker Syndicate's wildest well east of Torrance has reached the depth of the Lymes. There are many conflicting reports on the outlook of this well, but as yet those heavily interested in it have not given up hopes that it will be a producer.

Good Prospects in Lynes Well at Signal Hill

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
LONG BEACH, July 29.—With the development of a heavy gas pressure in the Northwestern Lynes No. 1 well, at Bixby Road and Elm avenue, prospects for production in the northwest outpost of Signal Hill field appeared more encouraging than ever this week, according to local operators. The well is now nearing the 5001-foot mark. The Lynes well is four blocks north and east of the Bixby No. 1, which virtually proved up one end of the Signal Hill extension with a 500-barrel flow four weeks ago. The find was made from a somewhat shallow depth, as compared to the drilling depth of the Lynes. The heavy gas pressure being experienced by the Lynes drillers leads them to believe that an oil sand formation lies close to the 5100-foot level. The Northwest Extension Syndicate controls forty-three acres of leases around the wildcat.

OIL SHIPMENTS SET NEW MARK

Harbor Continues to Make Records by Week

Twelve Tankers on July 20 Take 910,000 Barrels

In Seven Days There Were Exports of 3,175,000

As the oil fields of the Los Angeles Basin approach their peak of production with a steadily increasing daily output of crude, Los Angeles Harbor continued to break records from week to week in the amount of oil exported from here. The week ending with July 20 was a record for the harbor, with 9,100,000 barrels of petroleum shipped from this harbor to all points of the world, and July 20 went down in history with what is believed to have been the record oil shipment from any known harbor—910,000 barrels in twelve tankers.

July 20 was not far behind the record, however, with the loading of 140,000 barrels of oil into eleven tankers, and the week of July 21 to July 27, inclusive, set a new record for world oil shipments, the petroleum exports amounting to 3,175,000 barrels in forty-seven tankers, against 3,025,000 barrels in forty-one tankers during the previous seven days.

The tanker record of the harbor from July 21 to July 27, inclusive, is as follows:

W. S. Miller, for San Francisco, 70,000 barrels for Standard Oil Company.
Applomb, for Fall River, Mass., 100,000 barrels for Associated Oil Company.

LOS ANGELES' SEVENTH INDUSTRY

ACCORDING to statistics recently compiled by the Chamber of Commerce, the production of ice cream and confections ranks seventh in volume of business in Los Angeles.

Even more striking is the fact that this industry probably ranks FIRST IN PROFITS.

This statement is substantiated by the remarkable record of earnings of the W. M. Petitfils store at 613-615 South Broadway, one of the largest retailers of high grade confections on the Pacific coast.

During 4 1/2 years of operation, net profits of this establishment have averaged over $136,167 per annum. Profits in 1922 were over $179,000.

An opportunity to participate fully in these tremendous earnings is now offered Los Angeles investors through the ownership of PETITFILS CONFISERIE (INC.), COMMON STOCK, of which a limited amount is now offered at $100 per share.

A merger of the Petitfils establishment at 613-615 South Broadway with the Brown Candy Company Shops at 751 South Broadway, 217 West 6th Street and 759 South Flower Street (formerly the Chocolate Shops originally built by Petitfils) has extended the highly experienced management of W. M. Petitfils to these four stores. Centralized buying and the manufacture of ice cream and sweets at one plant will make possible important operating economies.

Based on the 4 1/2 year record of the Petitfils store, net earnings of the new company (from the four stores) will be approximately $765,000 per annum—over 25% on the total capitalization including this issue. Additional stores, soon to be opened, will further increase these earnings.

Application will be made to list this stock on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange—assuring ready marketability at all times.

NEUTENANT FACES OUSTER IN NEW POLICE SHAKE-UP

Man Under Fire Is Believed to be Allied With Dismissed Captain; Many Changes Promised

A new political sensation is expected to burst over Los Angeles today in the dismissal from the force of a high official strongly identified with the "political policemen" ring, which sought to obtain a strangle hold on the Los Angeles Police Department. That this man, a lieutenant, and one of the best-known politicians in the city, is to be discharged this morning on the grounds of pernicious political activity was a persistent report from reliable circles yesterday.

"BOOTLEG MISER" IN CUSTODY

Agents Raid House, Find $4000; Five Men and Two Women Are Held

George Contreras, head of the Wright Act enforcement squad, made a series of raids in the city yesterday morning which netted two women and five men, one of whom is known as the "bootleg miser," a man by the name of Andrew Franklin, who was arrested at his home, 2146 East Thirtieth street, Franklin had about fifty gallons of whisky in his house, believed by the officials to be pre-looted.

Hidden in the mattress of his bed, in the upholstery of chairs, behind pictures and under the carpets the officials found secreted about $2000 in silver dollars, which they forced Franklin to put in a sack, carry to the District Attorney's office and count. On his person was $2000 in bills, which he stated he had received from his best customers.

The others captured were Charles Beck of 2323 East Thirtieth street, who contributed fifty pints of liquor; Frank Cruise of 2323 East Thirtieth street; A. M. Clark of 2323 East Thirtieth street; Lewis Let of 2323 East Thirtieth street; Mrs. C. L. Young, 40 years of age, living in the rear of 2323 East Thirtieth street, who, according to Contreras, was selling liquor and also had in her possession a quantity of morphine; and Mrs. Ana Mendoza, 40, of 2323 East Thirtieth street, who, according to Contreras, was selling liquor and also had in her possession a quantity of morphine.

Contreras is known to be strongly in favor of increased efficiency and elimination of pernicious elements from the police department and the hearing on the appeal of Capt. Heath, and possibly the dismissal of the lieutenant, are expected to rip wide open the forces for and against the old system.

Capt. Heath is known to be strongly in favor of increased efficiency and elimination of pernicious elements from the police department and the hearing on the appeal of Capt. Heath, and possibly the dismissal of the lieutenant, are expected to rip wide open the forces for and against the old system.

Capt. Heath's application for a hearing will be filed this morning with the Police Commission. It was learned yesterday. The matter will come up at the meeting of the Police Commission tomorrow, when Chief Oak's letter to the commission, telling of his action against Heath, will be read by the commission.

Capt. Heath's request for a public hearing will be read by the commission tomorrow.

"I cordently expect that the commission will grant me a public hearing," Capt. Heath said yesterday. "At this time I cannot state what defense I will put on. I assume that it will have to be confined to the allegations, I am going to put on the best defense I can. However, no doubt the hearing will take the usual semi-

OBSOLETE MARTYR HONORED

Italian Colony Pays Tribute to Vittorino Who Gave His Head for Love of Christianity

Be it known that in the third century of Our Lord a Vittorino, of Canneto, Italia, had his head struck off by a Roman axe because he would not relinquish his faith in Christianity.

And be it known that here in Los Angeles yesterday the anniversary of his martyrdom was celebrated on Yale street, just off Alpine street, which is out north where Italian and Mexican habitations run a race for their lines with wholesale houses.

Back in Canneto, province of Bari, the good folk yesterday celebrated the same event, but it probably was left uncelebrated in any other parts of Italy or the United States. Most of the Italians resident in the North End district came from Canneto, and theirs is the biggest Canneto colony in America.

Canneto is not to be found in the Atlas. Vittorino is not listed among the saints in any of the church books of reference. His name is completely unknown to the members of the Italian colony. They came from Canneto, and their ancestors have been celebrating the martyr's death for going on 300 years, canonization or no canonization. So this early Christian did not lose his head to the total unconcern of posterity.

The Los Angeles celebration of Vittorino's martyrdom yesterday was a curious mixture of medieval and modern custom, for the Italian laborers of the parish bring their ancient lore with them, but are not loath to tack on all the American customs they can come by.

A painting of St. Vittorino, on Saturday night when the celebration began, was carried to the church on the shoulders of four men, with a cornetist marching before and a brass band behind. The music for this ancient custom was as follows: The cornetist played "Nothing Could Be Finer Than to Be in Carolina in the Morning," and when he was

WILL PAY VISIT TO MEXICO CITY

Chamber of Commerce Plans Second Excursion

Business Men Believe This Opportune Time

Important Developments to Follow Recognition

Definite arrangements have just been completed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce for its second excursion to the City of Mexico. It is planned to leave Los Angeles by a special train over the Southern Pacific Thursday afternoon, September 6, and arrive in the City of Mexico in time to take part in the celebration of Mexico's Independence Day, September 16.

Many members of the Chamber of Commerce, declaring their confidence that a stable government has been established by President Obregon and his associates and that it will be successfully maintained now express a wish to be in the City of Mexico on September 16, next, in anticipation of being able to take part in an added celebration over the recognition of the Mexican government by the United States government, which action they now regard as a certainty.

STOPS ARE PLANNED

Clarence H. Matson, manager of the trade extension department of the Chamber of Commerce, states that stops will be made at Tucson on Friday, September 7, and at El Paso, Tex., and that Mexico City will be entered at Juarez.

Stops of several hours also will be made at Chihuahua, Torreon and possibly Aguascalientes. A stay of five days is planned for the City of Mexico, which will be reached September 13, next, permitting the excursionists to participate in the Independence Day celebration but enabling them to make numerous trips to the beautiful and historic nearby points.

Returning, the trip will be made by way of San Luis Potosi, Monterrey, Laredo and San Antonio. Los Angeles will be reached at 9 a.m. September 25, after an absence of sixteen days.

It is announced that reservations may be made at the trade extension department of the Chamber of Commerce at any time after 9 a.m. August 8.

Mayor Montemayor states that in addition to members of the Chamber of Commerce, members of all the various chambers, with their wives or other members of their families, are privileged to go on the excursion, but that because of the expected demand for space only members of the Chamber of Commerce or affiliated bodies will be accorded priority.

In discussing the coming excursion, Mr. Matson explained: "With the coming of recognition by the United States, it is generally believed that business conditions in Mexico will take such a turn toward the unexpected that thousands of Americans are waiting only for recognition of the Obregon government to make their way to Mexico, both for investment and business."

TIME OPPORTUNE

"Therefore this would seem to be an opportune time for the excursion to Mexico. It is not generally realized, but it is declared to be a fact that Los Angeles is the second largest Mexican city in the world, and that its Mexican population is exceeded only by the City of Mexico."

"Too, Los Angeles is the greatest American city situated near the Mexican border, and therefore it is declared to be a fact that Los Angeles is the second largest Mexican city in the world, and that its Mexican population is exceeded only by the City of Mexico."

"And it is declared to be a fact that Los Angeles is the second largest Mexican city in the world, and that its Mexican population is exceeded only by the City of Mexico."

Is Married in Secret

Mrs. Raymond B. Vickers

WEDDING STIRS SOCIETY

Mrs. Haupt, Daughter of Rich Pasadena, Secretly Marries Raymond B. Vickers

Pasadena society has been thrown into a turmoil by the news that Mrs. Edward P. Haupt, formerly Miss Rosaline Merritt, daughter of Hulet C. Merritt, Pasadena millionaire, went secretly to Santa Ana, Friday night and there became the bride of Raymond B. Vickers, local business man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. T. Porter at the First Christian Church of Santa Ana, in the presence of the bridegroom's brother and Tom E. Coleman, a close friend.

Details of the romance leading up to the wedding of the beautiful widow are lacking due to reticence on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, who refuse to discuss the marriage except insofar as admissions that their daughter is married and that they have given their blessing.

NEWLYWEDS VANISH

Efforts to locate the newlyweds were unproductive of results, both Mr. and Mrs. Merritt disclaiming knowledge of their whereabouts, asserting that their daughter is married and that they have given their blessing.

"HANDSOME CHAP"

Mr. Merritt submitted to brief questioning yesterday afternoon, disclosing only the barest details of the marriage. The bridegroom, he said, is Raymond B. Vickers, senior partner of the Eban Sales Company of Los Angeles, dealing in mill supplies, about 32, and "a handsome chap." He and Mrs. Haupt had known each other for some time prior to their marriage, he declared.

It was apparent that Mrs. Vickers has been a guest at the Arlington Hotel, Santa Barbara, for some time prior to her marriage, when, with her son, she departed for Pasadena, ostensibly, Friday night and she and Mr. Vickers were married there.

TRAFFIC CLAIMS GIRL AS VICTIM

Killed When Motorcycle Strikes Woman

Two Are Near Death From Auto Crashes

Man Loses Both Feet Under Trolley Car

A motorcycle accident cost Miss Stacie Goble her life; Fred Sprague and Miss Sofia Washburn were probably fatally hurt in an automobile collision; Gaspar Antonio lost both feet beneath the wheels of a Pacific Electric trolley car at Venice and many sustained minor injuries in yesterday's series of traffic mishaps.

One accident involved seven automobiles and a street car as well as causing the disappearance of a taxicab passenger, who, it is surmised, decided to continue his journey afoot.

Miss Goble lost her life, deputy sheriff aver, when a motorcycle, operated by William E. Shubin, of 2154 Eastside Boulevard, carrying the girl as a cross-bar passenger, struck Mrs. Esther J. Valdez and crashed into a telephone pole at Chicago and Marion streets.

WOMAN STRUCK UNHURT

Mrs. Valdez was unhurt but Miss Goble died before the ambulance could reach the White Memorial Hospital. Shubin was arrested by investigating officers but was released on his own recognizance, pending the outcome of the coroner's inquest scheduled for today.

Sprague, 57 years of age, suffered a possible skull fracture when the automobile in which he was riding with Fred S. Perkins, who was injured, ran into a taxicab at 1623 Santa Monica, collided with another driven by W. H. Batty at the intersection of Santa Fe and Santa Monica streets. Batty was unhurt. Perkins received slight injuries.

COLLISION WITH CAR

Miss Washburn, who lives at 6531 North Hollywood avenue, was hurt when her car was struck by a Los Angeles-Eagle Rock street car at the intersection of Verdugo Road and San Fernando Boulevard. Miss Washburn suffered possible internal injuries and a fractured collarbone. Miss Washburn was taken to the hospital. A taxicab driver, who was in charge of the street car, was in charge of the car.

ATTEMPTED TO BOARD TRAIN

An attempt to board a train at the intersection of Pier avenue and Trolleyway, Venice, shortly before 5 o'clock, his foot slipped and he fell under the wheels of the car next in rear. It is said that he tried to get on the train before it came to a stop and apparently misjudged the distance. He was rushed to St. Catherine's Hospital, where a wound found necessary to amputate his foot.

DISAPPEARS IN CRASH

When the airbrakes on a Los Angeles street car suddenly failed to work yesterday afternoon, the intersection of Sixth and Hope streets, the car crashed into a Brown and White taxicab driven by Robert Selk, of 408 East Fifth street, demolishing the rear end of the taxi and more or less damaging several other machines which were in front of the cab and which were each hit in turn by the impact of the cars.

Selk was the only person hurt. His injuries consisted of slight scalp wounds and bruises.

At the time the accident occurred, a fare in his cab. He disappeared in the mix-up and has not since been seen.

Police Surgeon Hoke, on duty at the Resolving Hospital during the afternoon watch yesterday, attended the victims of four minor crashes as well as Sprague and Miss Washburn.

ANOTHER HUSBAND MISSING

Second Former Follies Girl, Mrs. P. H. Douglas, Reports Male Has Disappeared

Grish graduates of Florenz Ziegfeld's Follies now residing in Los Angeles are not exhibiting the stuff which formerly charmed New York's tired business men efficiently enough to hold their husbands. This is the conclusion drawn from perusal of the missing persons file at police headquarters.

Mrs. P. H. Douglas, 2919 Mountain View avenue, Wilmar Park, who says she used to carry a spear as Madalyn Howard in the same chorus with Jessica Brown, is the latest footlight's lass to report a husbandly disappearance act. She tells the police that her 40-year-old spouse left for work last Tuesday in her Ford sedan and is still on the way home.

"We were married last April 23 and our married life never has been marred by a single argument," she says. "If my husband has simply decided to desert me, all well and good. I'd simply like to know about it."

PROMISED TO BE BACK

"I can't imagine him going away and never saying anything about it. The last thing he said to me was that he would be home for dinner. If he isn't coming back, the last thing he can do is return my car."

Unless her missing spouse returns, once Mrs. Douglas declares it will be necessary for her to again don tight in order to feed her three children, Jack, 4, and Marilyn, the year-old youngster whom Mrs. Douglas says she named after Marilyn Pickford, nee Miller, dainty Follies dancer.

Mrs. Douglas left the Follies to wed Lawrence Lech, New York radio inventor and is now 25 years of age. In her conversation with police officers relative to her husband's disappearance she expressed a stoical and interested solely in the

DUPLICATE WATERWAYS
 Disregarding its contribution to the national defense, the Panama Canal is at present a paying commercial proposition. Trade through the canal is already twenty years in advance of the government estimates when construction was started. The canal has aided in the development of the Pacific area and the wonderful expansion of the Pacific Coast in commercial and industrial lines has made the canal a good business investment.

But, if the present ratio of growth continues, the volume of traffic from coast to coast by water will be greater within the next twenty years than the canal can accommodate. So it is but natural that serious consideration should be given to the proposal to construct a second canal.

Surveys of the Nicaragua route have been made repeatedly. These show that a duplicate of the Panama Canal, with double the canal's carrying power, could be constructed at a cost considerably less than that of the original project.

In favor of the second canal are powerful arguments; the military advantage of duplicate routes, shortening the distance from the port of New York to that of Los Angeles, and preparing for the commercial expansion that is now under way.

As at least ten years would be required to complete the Nicaragua project, it is apparent that the time has already arrived when the preliminary work should begin. The present canal has been frequently closed temporarily by landslides. In fact, there was a report only a week ago, fortunately false, that a great slide had blocked the canal to traffic.

When the canal was first opened the temporary delays did not work a serious disadvantage to the Pacific Coast, for the amount of traffic was comparatively negligible. Now that condition has changed. Tolls collected by the government for the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $11,197,532. The cost of operation was $7,407,998, leaving a net revenue for the year of $3,789,534.

If the canal were to be closed now by a landslide it would mean a serious interruption of business for the Pacific Coast. Los Angeles as an industrial district is concerned for one-half the cargoes passing through the canal also pass through this port. The development of Los Angeles as an industrial district and of the petroleum deposits in Los Angeles and Orange counties account for the increased tonnage through the canal, which amounted for the fiscal year to a gross volume of 13,000,000 tons.

Likewise, it is becoming apparent that concerted effort on the part of the whole Pacific Coast will be necessary to set the construction of the Nicaragua canal under way; for sectional jealousies are appearing. There are communities with much shorter vision that they imagine the rapid development of the Pacific Coast will take something away from them. Curious as it may seem, there are indications of a feeling of unrest in New York over the gigantic industrial strides that Los Angeles and the Pacific Coast are making.

The Panama Canal has brought the Pacific Coast nearer to Europe. Most of the traffic carried by rail between Europe and the west coast formerly passed through the port of New York. Now there are direct lines of steamers plying between Los Angeles Harbor and the ports of England, France and the Mediterranean states. New York finds that it is off the main waterway between the Pacific and Europe; and New Yorkers are beginning to ask what of the future.

When such a state of mind exists these New Yorkers are certain to find arguments to urge against the construction of a second canal.

But, fortunately, not all the New Yorkers are so sectionally narrow. It is only a minority that must be combated; but that minority covers a group of importers who are powerful politically. As the situation now stands, the government would welcome a duplicate canal, as it would simplify the problem of national defense; but there are interests controlling a block of votes in Congress that will oppose the project for purely selfish reasons; just as the railroads now having terminals in Los Angeles oppose the project for a union terminal.

It is a case where the Pacific Coast must act as a unit and fight its own battle; for there is likely to be as much opposition as co-operation from the Atlantic seaboard.

FOR THE PUBLIC INTEREST
 Federal Judge Wilkerson's decision, making permanent the temporary injunction to restrain the unions from illegal acts during the shopmen's strike last fall, promises to be of lasting benefit to the three parties affected by such disputes, the companies, the railroad workers and the general public.

Of these three parties the general public is the most important. Moreover, it is the general public that bears the greater part of the loss, though in a way connected with the quarrel between the union and the company. Judge Wilkerson's decision will be received with universal satisfaction by all except the radical few who live by stirring up industrial commotion.

Though the shopmen's strike was of brief duration, Judge Wilkerson pointed out that it led to a property damage of $98,000,000, to nineteen deaths, to 1500 cases of assault, 300 fire and dynamite outrages and fifty deaths. No respectable member of a labor union would wish the funds to which he had contributed used for such illegal and destructive purposes. The courts will see in future that union funds are not so misapplied.

These unlawful assaults against the commerce of the nation are injurious chiefly to the people. General sentiment against strikes involving violence and intimidation has risen to such a pitch that the country will no longer tolerate strikes of this description.

Apparently the time is fast approaching when the strike as a weapon in the hands of the unions will be a thing of the past. One contributing cause to the unpopularity of the strike is the certainty that whenever a large body of workers is being oppressed by unnatural hours or conditions or inadequate pay, invoking public opinion will more quickly bring remedy and relief than the riots and brutality that attend a trial by force. In this way the unpopularity of the strike is also an incentive to employers to see that American labor conditions are as comfortable and remunerative as the trade of the world.

Slowly but surely the attitude of abhorrence toward the destructive strike on the part of the general public is ushering in a better state of things in the relation between capital and labor.

Labor-union men along with the great majority of their unorganized fellow-workers have seen in Russian misery an object lesson of what happens to a nation when it renounces the recognized standards of civilization. None of them wants the Red flag in America. The strike is the only weapon in America through which anarchy sees any hope of overturning our present industrial relations. Could it be successfully employed it would destroy the unions more completely than the capitalists.

At any rate, Judge Wilkerson's decision has made clear one point on which the American people are all in hearty agreement. The strike in labor disputes must be made to conform to the lawful standards that govern all other social relations in our daily life; or else the strike must go. A popular verdict would probably favor the latter alternative.

CINEMA INFLUENCES
 Blame for the passing of many established things has been laid at the door of the movies and now comes the announcement that a number of New York clubs are considering closing their doors because the call of the silent drama in the evening is stronger than the comic urge to lounge in the clubrooms. Where once men were wont to frequent their clubs they now rush home to dinner and take the family to the nearest cinema palace afterward. Even the most exclusive clubs on Fifth avenue show rows of empty chairs facing the windows, only a few gloomy examples of the old guard being present to deplore the passing of the good old day.

Many of the clubs that are not considering closing are consolidating with similar organizations or moving to less expensive quarters. Prohibition, it appears, struck the first blow at them and now the motion picture has completed the knock-out. All one has to do to find the former "true clubmen," according to a writer in the Evening Post, is to go to any of the community picture houses of an evening and see them there with their wives and families. How great a benefit the picture producers have conferred on family life can be realized when one considers that the club was formerly the wife's greatest rival and the thing she was most jealous of. An evening at the picture palace now bridges over the monotonous evenings formerly spent by people who had no musical or artistic pursuits or interests in common.

From England comes another plaint that their beautiful country houses and late apartments in the cities. The reason is the impossibility of obtaining servants who will live in the country, far from a motion-picture theater. They will only stay in districts that can supply them with the latest and best cinema releases.

THIS BATTING BUSINESS
 The big money appears to be in the boxing game. The average man—or woman, for that matter—will gladly fork over a ten-spot for the joy of seeing a pair of huskies biff each other in a roped arena. In his two mix-ups with Tender Benny Leonard has drawn nearly $1,000,000 to the box office. And Benny is a lightweight, at that. The immense attraction which surrounds a championship battle of any kind indicates the hold which boxing has upon the American mind and heart. It is now a question of finding an arena or coliseum vast enough to accommodate the thousands who are clamoring for the $25 seats.

The average American is inclined to take his sports by proxy. He may do a bit of boxing himself, but he prefers to watch others do the battling. He has indulged in baseball in his day, but he prefers to pay experts $5000 a year that he may watch them swat the pill from the vintage point of a box seat. When it comes to boxing he loves to match his trained heroes against one another and view them in action from a comfortable seat. He has no venom in his heart. He loves fair play and he usually sees that it is accorded to the humblest mauler. But he wants to see his battlers in action and that is why the boxing game, properly controlled, may be said to have a definite place in American life. The warlike usually come together with no malice in their hearts. They mix their business with their pleasure. Some of them really enjoy a good fight, but the financial comes first. It is all in the day's work.

It would perhaps be better for the sport-

as well as for those concerned with its various angles—if every State had its boxing commissioners to regulate the game. Many of the States now recognize the ring to this extent, but it would be better if all were on a plane. The commissioners would be able to do such house-cleaning as is necessary to the sport. They could supervise the match-making and preserve the interests of the spectators as well as the fighters. Championships to mean anything should be contested for at least once a year and a committee from the boxing commissioners might well have charge of all the details. They should not only determine the contestants, but the location of the meetings. As it is now a battle represents the diplomacy or generalship of certain avaricious managers and is not a true response to the sport itself. As it is now, there are a few warriors who are able to get all the big money. This is hardly fair to the sport. Under suitable regulation under recognized authority a lot of ambitious and competent athletes would gain some recognition. If we are to have battling boxers let them have a square deal all around and let the interests of the money-spending public be considered with the rest. Then there would be some of this business of self-styled champions sitting at ease for years until somebody digs up a $1,000,000 purse to be fought for.

PERILS OF THE STREET
 In a parade in which royalty was participating the British populace cheered so enthusiastically that the horses drawing the carriage in which the high sheriff and an English Earl were seated ran away. They plunged into the thick of a crowd with such disastrous results that a score or more of persons were maimed or crippled—some of them for life. Even a Ford could not be had as badly as that. It will stand still under a battery of cheers and will not even buck when somebody throws a firecracker under its nose. After all, there is nothing like a nice, shiny motor car if one wants to be safe.

WALT MASON.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

BY LEE SHIFFEY

II. Wilberforce Junkett of Ourville is spending his vacation in the city. And Ourville's temporary loss is the city's gain, for when Wilberforce vacates, he vacates. Not only is nothing too good for him, but very few things are half good enough.

We know Wilber was out to make large footprints in the shifting sands of public attention when he left Ourville. He scored the idea of taking the stage because the stage carries no parlor car. The ordinary inter-reuben looks good to Wilber fifty weeks in the year, but when he goes vacationing he always insists on riding in parlor cars. Says he likes to travel like a gentleman. Besides, on observation platforms or in the smokers he often meets pool-hall proprietors or gentlemen who follow the races from whom he acquires some new sports and valuable pointers on Real Life. But most of all, he enjoys the sensation he creates at the Ourville station by strolling back to the observation car instead of crowding into the day coach along with ordinary mortals, like Arthur Wicks, proprietor of the Cash Store, and Henry Hibbs, cashier of the bank. Usually some helpful friend is likely to think he has made a mistake and yell out:

"Here, Wilber, this is where we get on."

The day he left he duly impressed us by not only boarding the observation car, but thrusting his grip on the porter, commanding loftily both as to manner and voice:

"Trundle my bag on the ship for me, Gavage."

Before going Wilber left word that, in case of emergency, he could be found at a hotel most of us know only by reputation, but that was not enough. As soon as he got there he wrote half a dozen nasty notes on the hotel's stationery to prove to the proprietors that he was not a vagabond.

Postmaster Conner says he's glad Wilber vacations only once a year, for the letters and cards he sends back almost double the work of the office. He writes from all the principal hotels and cafes and sends cards proving conclusively that he is present at everything notable. His notes are rather sketchy, but anybody reading between the lines can see that Wilber is showing the city a lively two weeks.

When Wilber travels the thing he demands is service. The way he orders and tips porters, bellhops and such shows he is one to the manner born. He insists on being taken to those important personages, no matter what the cost.

Every time he goes to the city Wilber says good-bye as if it might be the last time. For he cannot blind himself to the fact that he makes Apollo look like the hunchback of Notre Dame. The way the high-school girls crowd into the Curall drug store, where he works, is ample proof of that, even if "Doc" Higgins, the owner, doesn't think they only come for nut sundae.

So Wilber is always half afraid the motion-picture magnates will capture him. So far no such kidnapping has been attempted, but that may only be because the picture men, awed by his general style and manner, fear they could never pay his price.

For, besides being dangerously handsome, Wilber has the other thing picture kings are looking for. He knows how to dress and wears his clothes elegantly. He is the only man in Ourville who is known by the name of Wilber. He is known by the name of Wilber. He is known by the name of Wilber.

We are all eager for Wilber's return, for we know he will have stirring stories to tell of the things that never get into the papers. Though he goes to the city rarely, he has an unerring gift for becoming an insider. It is too bad the police department there cannot secure Wilber's co-operation, for then it could quiet and all the pipe parlor, society bootleggers and private gambling palaces in town, to say nothing of what he could lead it to in Hollywood. He'll have enough personal memoirs to relate of movie queens alone to last him till his next vacation.

Titus Drumm, president of the Bank of Ourville, was in the city the other day. He went to a movie hotel, for it was by taking care of his money that he got to be bank president. But while talking in the exposition he chanced to see Wilber. His attention was called to him by a city friend who pretended to think Wilber was part of some show.

"Perfect type, eh?" he asked.

"Of what?" asked Titus, a little proudly.

"Why, of a hick, of course," said the other.

Envy! That was it, of course. Les Wicks, our cobbler, also was in the city a couple of days later. Les dropped into the I-Bet-U lunch counter and there, fervently clasped about the pedestal of a stool, he saw a pair of soles he thought he recognized. Looking higher, he saw a face which, though partly disguised by a large bit of pie

The Woman and Her Job

(Questions of general interest, especially on the vocational training of women and their employment problems, will be answered by Mrs. Watrous in this column if addressed to her in care of The Times.)

"SWEETNESS AND LIGHT"
There were three of us at the table—strangers all. Of the others one was slim, nineteen and starry-eyed, the other forty-something, fat and disillusioned.

Above the rattle of dishes and the staccato tones of the dinner, the orchestra rasped insistently. The number was "La Paloma"—as near orchestra-proof as anything ever written—and just then the notes of the violin were high and sweet—delicate jendrilla of harmony that twisted about the heart as if held in the palm of a hand.

"They are playing that—beautifully," Starry Eyes whispered. Her voice was that of old Virginia. "The roses," came from Fat One, in the flat tones of the Osarks.

We never would meet again, we three. Only the youth of the girl had reached out to touch us and draw us together. There were so many things that might have been said. No reply was acquired, and yet—

Doing a bit of research in the public library recently, I ran across a review of a play of many years ago. It was one of the earlier efforts of that master of stage-craft, David Belasco, the one which introduced George Arliss to American play-goers.

Blanche Bates as "The Darling of the Gods" had many lines that were memorable. I would that those of us who love the stage might have an opportunity to see this play of another generation. One speech in particular impressed me.

"To San" has lied nobly to save her lover, and in extenuation says this line which we might all treasure and remember: "The better to lie a little than to be unhappy much."

A simple philosophy, isn't it? Quite harmless, too. How much more kindly the feeling of each of those who sat at that table had Fat One replied to the thrifty observation of this line, which we might all treasure and remember.

"It is very lovely," Listening as I must to conversation between the clanking of stores, offices or factories, I am

Fruits should be part of the daily diet for all of us. We have long known the value of lemons and oranges as a preventative of scurvy, but it is only in recent years that we have realized the importance of fruits as a daily part of the diet rather than as an occasional treat. Fruits are a splendid source of vitamins, especially the anti-scorbutic (scurvy) vitamins. They are also valuable sources of mineral salts.

Fruits are not only a delicious food but they act as a stimulant to the digestive juices and to the muscular walls of the stomach and intestines, thereby acting more or less as a laxative. (The cellulose in the fruit contains also helps the intestinal movements.) They also have an antiseptic action and help to prevent putrefaction.

The sugars of fruits are the most easily digested of the sugars and they are practically ready for immediate absorption. Their juices are especially valuable in fevers.

While most fruits have an acid reaction, their salts when oxidized in the body yield the alkaline salts, and in this way help to maintain the normal alkalinity of the body. The only fruits that are listed as an exception in having this alkaline effect are the grapes, prunes and cranberries. Their acid salts are largely in the skins and these skins when there is a tendency to acidosis.

Fruits, instead of being harmful in rheumatism, are helpful. Stewed Fruits—Fruits are best taken fresh because boiling destroys most of the vitamins. This is true except of the raspberry and lemon juices—their vitamins seem to withstand heating, as the vitamins of tomatoes do; it is thought the acid stabilizes them.

If sugar is added to stewed fruits it had best be cooked with the fruit, because in this way the

"Times" Sunday Programs of Reverent Order

Holy Cross Choir is Heard During Evening

Sermon by Rev. Don Trumble is Broadcast

BY BEN A. MARKSON

In keeping with the spirit of the Sabbath, The Times' programs yesterday were of a reverent order, consisting of ensemble and solo offerings at night by members of the Holy Cross choir, and two organ recitals, one in the forenoon and one in the evening.

The organ recital, by Arthur Blakeley, famous artist, and portions of the services of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. Elmer E. Helms, pastor, were broadcast by live telephony.

William F. Grode directed the Holy Cross choir in the night sacred concert. This organization consists of twenty voices trained to properly render hymnal music by the best composers. The choir meets in weekly rehearsal. Under the directorship of Mr. Grode, the ensemble has steadily progressed until now it is recognized as one of the best in Los Angeles. Recently a Robert Morgan pipe organ was installed in the Holy Cross Church, and on the occasion of its dedication the choir gave a sacred concert which won the appreciation of a large audience.

The various solos, duos and trios given last night were selected with care, having been chosen because of their sweet and appealing melodies. Of special worth were two choruses, the "Sanctus" from Gounod's "Messe Solennelle" and Lambilliotte's "Lauda Sion." Songs in English, Latin and Italian were sung. Mrs. E. J. Lunenschloss, an accomplished pianist, accompanied the vocalists on the Knaabe.

The soloists included Agnes Strube, soprano; Augusta Gindrich, contralto; Mrs. Herman Weaver, soprano; Anna Grissell, soprano; E. J. Lunenschloss, baritone; Mrs. J. F. Sheridan, contralto; William F. Grode, baritone; J. A. Blalough, bass, and Robert A. Zink, tenor. In individual and combined voices they enhanced the beauty of sacred songs with the excellence of their tones and interpretation of genuine feeling. Mr. Grode, the members of the choir, and the accompanist deserve high praise for the finished quality of their efforts.

ORGAN RECITALS

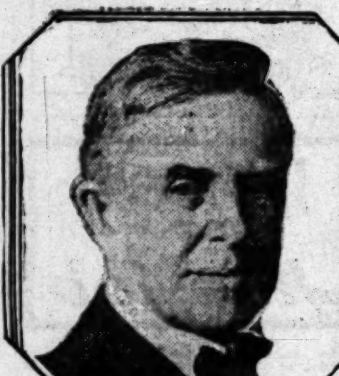

Arthur Blakeley's organ recital, broadcast from the First Methodist Episcopal Church, were of entrancing beauty. The almost human tones of the fine Ewart Watchorn memorial organ went to listeners in with all the inspiring sympathy and musical genius for which Mr. Blakeley is noted.

His selections from 10:30 to 11 a.m. included masterpieces of devotional music, such as "Morning Greeting" by Greg; "Recessional" by De Koven; "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan; "Pilgrim Song of Hope," by Battiste, and paraphrases—"Bringing in the Sheaves," a gospel hymn.

TOURING TIME

METROPOLITAN OFFERS LOCAL COLOR AND SCENERY

By Edwin Schallert
You can see a lot of Los Angeles, and some of scenic California, too, this week at Grauman's Metropolitan Theater. It's restful, a summery theater, when the thoughts naturally turn to touring. I suppose nearly everybody will be pleased at being able to travel around right in a theater. Sid Grauman is offering a per-ally conducted sightseeing-bus tour. He calls it "Thirty Minutes around Los Angeles." He starts with a sliding panorama that shows more like Iowa, and he finishes up with a long shot of Grauman's Metropolitan and the flashing Square. Such a long shot is, in fact, that the square looks more like Central Park. You get bearings, though, when you see the Grauman's Metropolitan announced in the bright lights. Signboards subscribed evidently to the theory that it was no accident

Really, the act has picturesque value, though you feel as if you know all about the various forms of settlements and colonies when you are through. Some of the things that happened on the stage would be new to these same colonies.

The presentation is, of course, properly colored to make enjoyable entertainment, and that's what really matters with a vaudeville offering, of which

I'm not inclined to cheer ecstatically over "Salomy Jane," but at the same time I'm not bent on going it either. The Bret Hart story shines through, and though sometimes the scenes are acted with path by the melodramatic cast directed by George Melford, the picture does brighten up very nicely for the climax. The girl saves her father and her lover alike, which is a cheering thing. The outstanding charm is the ant redwoods. The choice of locations is very commendable, an though there are no views that ac tually take your breath away, of anything like that, the general im pression of the outdoors is gratify ing.

opinions to the contrary, notwith standing this Salomey is no relation so worried Herod. In fact, she is the idol of the forty-nine

Miss Logan hasn't done anything to render Salomy particularly distinctive, or to characterize her, and I don't feel that she has the proper chance to do this either, but at least she gives us even routine portrayal. I can't be remembered, but at least I'm pleasing while it's going on. Maurice Evans does the other.

My own personal ideas of "American" are not carried out in "Sammy Jane," but then that's no reason why its interesting story should not be enjoyed.

"LEGALLY DEAD" IS LURING CROWD

"Legally Dead" is evidently a re-fire title. The crowd proves for there was an excellent line to see this picture last night at the Kinema.

The impression has circulated that it has something to do with the dead.

Very little of the picture, except the actual climax, has anything to do with this as a matter of fact. It is the trick, of course, on which the happy ending hinges. The producers came very near making a good Greek film out of their story. With the usual humors, and some very acceptable human touches besides, it moves on toward a finale that you can

It is not one of those pictures which may be effectively criticized because it is bad principle as to entertainment, not to speak of artistic story. There is none of that: at all.

If you have a curiosity about the possible revivifying influence of a drug, you'll probably enjoy the production. The actual story has merit in the telling, and Milton Sella does very creditable acting.

The comedy, "Casey Jones, Jr.," goes a lot faster than the old five-act version. If you want to have a good laugh here is a real laugh provoker.

ANOTHER WEEK FOR LLOYD'S THRILLER

As "Safety Last" opened yesterday on its tenth week at the Millard theater it seems as though Fred Lloyd would not take the picture off until Harold Lloyd had made the whole city laugh. Mildred De Harold's wife, supports the comedian in this, his latest venture and the rest of the cast including Bill Strother and Weston B. Clark.

In "Safety Last," the star takes the part of a country boy who comes to the city to earn enough money to marry the girl back home. She decides to visit him and arrives just in time to see him climb the side of a twelve-story building. In this climb, the

IS STILL ON VIEW

Buster Keaton's dizzy comed "The Balloonatic," is continuing for a third week at the Symphony Theater. The picture has been popularly received, because it is Buster does a bunch of clever stunts, and is up in the air a good deal of the time. He manages to keep his face straight, in spite of his apparent peril and his amusing antics.
